A REALLY TRUE WORKMAN

HARICHAND MANCHARAM & SON,

SAFE MANUFACTURER, GULALWADI, BOMBAY.

THE PROUD RECIPIENT OF 17 MEDALS.

ADDS ONE MORE FEATHER TO HIS CAP.

He gets the BEST CERTIFICATE a SAFE MANUFACTURER can ever get.

The Executors of the Great Temple of GOSWAMI SHRI MAHALAXMI VAHOOJI endorsed the good opinions one by this reputed Safe Maker in the following terms:—

Once it was discovered that ten Keys of a most valuable massive Safe kept in the Temple were lost or stolen. Every effort was made to unlock and open the Safe but to no purpose. Many a Locksmith tried but failed. The Safe was even taken to Messrs. Godrej's Factory, but the Safe could not be opened. All the valuables for the decoration and beautifying of the God of the Temple were locked up and it was an imperative need to get them out. At last Mr. HARICHAND was the rescuer from the already become awkward situation. He unlocked the massive Safe and took out the valuables. All the subsequent repairs and new Keys were a piece of work only an excellent and welversed artiste in his line could have done. It was executed most cleverly by Messrs. HARICHAND MANCHARAM & SON.

This CERTIFICATE was given on January 4, 1911, and signed Mr. GIRDHARLAL MEHTA, SOLICITOR, and other Executors of the Temple.

MARKET REPORT:—
The decline in the American markets, advised in the telegrams to hand this morning, has caused an easier feeling locally, and the market opened quiet at slightly under yesterday's closing rates. At Colaba, prior to the receipt of the Liverpool opener, rates were easier, but there was little actual business done. After the opener the market firmed up and closes as under.
For ready cotton there has been a moderate demand, and rates keep fairly steady.

INDIAN FISHERIES.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL MAXWELL, who was formerly in charge of the Burmese fisheries, some time ago, gave it as his opinion that "wealth beyond the dreams of avarice" awaited the persons who first had the courage to exploit the fisheries of India in a modern fashion. Mr. Phipson in Bombay and Lieutenant-Colonel Alcock, formerly Superintendent of the Indian Museum at Calcutta and naturalist on the Royal Indian Marine Survey ship "Investigator," were equally confident; the latter writing that the sea-fisheries of the Bay of Bengal are of a value well nigh incalculable. That they are unknown, uncared for, and unappreciated is unfortunately true; but it is equally true that they will prove a mine of wealth to whoever may have the enterprise to exploit them and the tenacity of purpose to work them in the face of the apathy and incredulity that at present exist regarding them. We do not know that the Bombay fisheries were ever investigated though an attempt to exploit them according to modern methods was made some years ago and failed. In view of a similar venture in the Bay of Bengal, Dr. Travis Jenkins, Superintendent of the Lancashire and Western Sea fisheries, read a paper, the other day before the Indian Section of the Society of Arts, in which he said that before a successful trawling company could be established there are many things to be considered. Some of these problems were solved by the "Golden Crown" investigations—conducted on the trawler of that name which was purchased by the India Office in 1908—while others remain to be dealt with. One of the most important factors for consideration is the climate. Replying to the question, can fishing be carried on regularly in the Bay of Bengal by modern steam trawlers in all weathers? Dr. Jenkins writes: The experience of the "Golden Crown" enables us to answer this most important question in the affirmative, so that it is possible to secure a regular and constant supply of fish for the markets. Trawling was, as a matter of fact, carried on in every month except May, and there can be no doubt that if the "Golden Crown" had not been laid up for repairs, she would have gone out that month as well. Only one voyage out of twenty-eight was entirely unproductive. The climate also affects the possibility of keeping fish fresh. It was proved by the "Golden Crown" investigations that it is possible to land sea fish in a fresh condition in Calcutta from places as far distant as Akyab and Santapilli, and, moreover, this fish had undergone no deterioration in quality, appearance, or flavour. The quantity of fish captured per day's trawling compared favourably with many British fishing grounds, in spite of handicaps under which the "Golden Crown" laboured. The fish to be obtained in the Bay are, for the most part, of excellent appearance and taste, and should command a quick sale in the Calcutta and up-country markets. Even the coarsest varieties could be disposed of to the poorer classes.

One or two other matters that would have to be considered very carefully by any company that proposed to exploit the Bay with steam trawlers were referred to by Dr. Jenkins. The greatest difficulty, it seems, is undoubtedly pilotage. The pilotage dues are necessarily heavy. Moreover even when moored in the river opposite Prinsep's Ghat at Calcutta, the discharge of fish is attended with difficulties which have to be seen to be realised. For these reasons, the claims of Diamond Harbour in preference to Calcutta as a trawling base are supported. Diamond Harbour being connected with Calcutta by a branch line of the Eastern Bengal State Railway, perishable goods could be rapidly transported there. Coal and fresh water could be brought down by launches or country boats, whichever was cheaper. Land for building purposes could be obtained at a cheaper rate than in Calcutta, and there should be no difficulty about coolie labour. The fish merchants in Calcutta might, and probably would, attempt to boycott trawl-caught fish, since it would tend to interfere with the large profits they at present enjoy. Hands for deck and engine-room work can be obtained at cheap rates, but in the opinion of Dr. Jenkins no trawler could fish successfully in the Bay of Bengal with less than two Europeans on board.

The matter of transport is felt to be the most formidable obstacle in the way of a profitable development of the Bay of Bengal fishery and it is not easy to see how this could be surmounted. The supply of fresh fish in Calcutta and up-country markets within a day's journey is quite inadequate to meet the demand; and there is a large quantity of edible sea and estuarine fish of the highest quality available within easy reach of Calcutta. Since this fish can be purchased from the local fishermen far cheaper than it could be caught by any other means, there seems to be no reason for introducing European or any other methods of fishing, except in places like Fraserganj in the Sunderbans, where there is no community of indigenous fishermen and an abundant supply of fish. Fresh fish always commands a quicker sale and a better price than any cured fish, and consequently Dr. Jenkins believes that any company which might be formed to develop what is only done now spasmodically—a trade in fresh fish preserved in ice for the Calcutta market—ought to be very successful, if at all reasonably managed. In a report to Government on the result of the estuarine investigations Dr. Jenkins pointed out the reasons why the development of the estuarine fisheries should pay, and the lines along which such development should proceed. An estuarine fishery would possess several advantages over any other. A much smaller capital would be required than in the case of a steam trawling company. The development of the estuarine fisheries would be independent of the importation of European labour, and would consequently cost much less than steam trawling, where, in my opinion, Europeans could never be dispensed with. In an estuarine fishery it is rather by improving and modifying the local methods of fishing than by introducing foreign methods which may prove unsuitable to local conditions, that success is to be anticipated. The taste and good qualities of the estuarine fish are already well known to the population of Bengal, whereas sea fish, are not so well known, and are certainly less appreciated. In the estuaries there are fish suited to the taste and means of all classes of the population. It seems to him almost incredible that no attempt has been made to develop on a large scale the possibilities of the Sunderbans and other coastal fisheries of Bengal. Dr. Jenkins reiterated the opinion that the fisheries of India are neglected and considers it the duty of Government to take stock of an asset of considerable value and further to encourage in every way in its power the development of a natural source of food supply the potentialities of which are enormous. But there is really no reason whatever why Government should undertake this duty. Private enterprise and private capital would do it just as well and perhaps more profitably.

ELECTION OF CHIEF RABBI.

SINCE the death in July last of Dr. Hermann Adler their Chief Rabbi, the British Jews have been without a head, a flock without a pastor, for they have not appointed a successor yet to their late eminent spiritual chief. A few months ago there was a strong opinion that the high office should be abolished as they could not find any one worthy to hold it. Dr. Adler and his father Nathan held the office for exactly two-thirds of a century and rendered it so illustrious by their learning and piety during that long period that it is not hard to understand that the Jews, used to their distinguished leadership, should now find the choice of a worthy successor so hard. Yet a successor should be chosen. Even the late Chief Rabbi found in his latter years the duties of his office grow very onerous as he was approaching his seventieth year, and he would have been well advised in associating with him a worthy man who could have succeeded him without much difficulty. He himself was selected by his father to assist him in the heavy work of Chief Rabbi eleven years before he succeeded. But somehow or other he did not do this and thus made the choice of his successor peculiarly hard for his followers. But he had a strong opinion that there must be a Chief Rabbi. Fortunately there are his own words stating the necessity for keeping up this office and also the requisite qualification for its holder. "I am strongly convinced" he wrote "that to ensure the welfare of Judaism in this country it is essential that a successor in the Rabbirate should be appointed with the least possible delay after my demise. He must be a strong personality, strong in piety and learning, one who will be equally acceptable to the East and to the West, the native and the immigrant." There may be a dearth of such men among the Jews of England, yet there are a few, a very few, who might be held to combine these qualifications. The community, it is gratifying to find, are after all going to appoint a Chief Rabbi, and Lord Rothschild, the President of the United Synagogue, added an essential qualification in this Rabbi when he said that he must be one who to his other qualities should prove that of being thoroughly British in his ideals and aspirations. If it was hard to find a Rabbi before, it should be harder now, for nearly all the learned Jewish Doctors of their faith are foreigners. Dr. Hermann Adler was a German, a Hanoverian by birth like his father, but being brought to England at the early age of six he not only became naturalised as a British subject, but became thoroughly imbued with our thoughts and sentiments in early life before he came to the Rabbinate.

At present there is a highly learned and pious scholar among the Jews in England who might not unjustly succeed to Dr. Adler's post. But Lord Rothschild's emphatic utterance rather goes to invalidate his claims. Dr. Moses Gaster has Rubbinical learning enough and to spare and is besides very well versed in other Oriental studies. But he was not only born at Bucharest in Roumania but passed thirty years of his life there till he sought refuge in England in 1885 as a patriotic exile from his native land. In England he was highly respected by the Spanish and Portuguese congregation of Jews who made him their Habram or Wise man equivalent to Chief Rabbi. This congregation is however, not under this jurisdiction of the United Synagogue, a very influential organization of London Jews founded with the sanction of an act of Parliament which though directly confined to the metropolis yet exercises indirect influence over the Jews of the whole British Empire. To this United Synagogue which selects the Chief Rabbi and is presided over by Lord Rothschild, Dr. Gaster would not be acceptable on the ground of his foreign birth and up-bringing. Very likely they would appoint as Chief Rabbi another highly respected Doctor, of the Manchester synagogue, Professer Hermann Gollancz, who is at present in London permanently engaged in various social and literary movements of his people. Dr. Gollanez was born in Germany but was brought to England in the very year of his birth, and is thoroughly English in everything. He is also a very learned Rabbi and is besides an Orientalist of great repute and we shall not be surprised to hear of his selection by the United Synagogue as he fulfils all of Dr. Adler's and also Lord Rothschild's qualifications. He will be sixty next November, neither too young nor too old for the venerable office of Chief Rabbi. His brother is Dr. Israel Gollanez, a distinguished man of letters and Secretary of the British Academy.

THE CHANCELLOR AND WELSH HOUSING.

THE proposal to organise a Welsh national testimonial to the Chancellor of the Exchequer was recently vetoed by Mr. Lloyd-George, but we may refer to it as one of the proposals took a particularly interesting and useful form. The opinion was expressed at a recent meeting of the Welsh Housing Association that a suitable and non-political manner of doing honour to the Chancellor would be to found a chair of Housing and Town-Planning in the University of Wales, with lectures at the three constituent colleges of Cardiff, Bangor and Aberystwith. There can be no question that in many parts of Wales particularly the rural areas, housing is in a shocking condition and in some parts of the coal-field, though by no means throughout it, bad housing has much to do in the back-ground with the discontent of the miners and their families. Mr. Ellis Griffith, the chairman of the Welsh party in the House is a keen supporter of this proposal. He remarks that in rural Wales the death-rate from certain diseases is higher than in urban Wales and much higher than in rural England. This is especially so in regard to women and children, and is largely due to bad housing and lack of means and knowledge for its improvement. Mr. Griffith points to the example of Birmingham in founding a similar chair and urges Wales to profit by the best English, German and French experience believing that the best way to set to work is to produce teachers of the people at the University. Wales, the progressive Welshman argues, is suffering from its exclusion from the purview of the Housing Commission of 1883. As this proposal does not involve any gift to Mr. Lloyd-George, and as it is in pursuit of an object, with which he certainly has the deepest sympathy, it is possible that he may permit his name to be associated with it, in which case there can be no doubt whatever of its immediate success. It is undoubtedly a movement to which Wales affords many opportunities of public service.

THE WORLD OF SPORT.

(FROM OUR SPORTING CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, DEC. 29.

An illustration of how a good performance stimulates other athletes to do their best, was furnished by the manner Italian athletes performed in the Surrey Athletic Club's 15-miles road running race on Boxing Day. The second, third, fifth and seventh places were occupied by Italians, and even allowing for the fact that the entry was not very representative of England's best, it was a good showing by the fellow countrymen of Dorando Pietri. To the latter's example in the Olympic Marathon race of 1908, may be traced the wonderful enthusiasm of Italians for Marathon running and this clearly shows the bearing example has on our sports, as pointed out recently.

The Surrey race by the way, was won by A. Williams of the Kent A. C., and assuming that the course was the full distance, he accomplished a really good performance in running the distance on heavy roads in 1 hour 24 mins. 35 secs., the second man being nearly two minutes behind. Sixth place was occupied by a Turk, so that John Bull did not figure very well.

PAST AND PRESENT.

British athletes are certainly being hard pressed just now and it is not entirely due to the great advance of European and American stayers, due to the revival of the Olympiad. Our cracks do not compare with the giants of the past, and it just happens that we are enjoying a very long lean period. We should have had fewer qualms in the palmy days of W. G. George, W. Snook, G. Crossland, W. H. Morton, S. Thomas, J. Kibblewhite and A. Shrubb, and they would be very useful now. Still there is no need to worry, and the swing of the pendilum will no doubt bring about better things.

TALENTED SOUTH AFRICANS.

What home sportsmen are discussing freely is the likely help the over-seas portion of the British Empire team will be able to render at the next Olympiad. Australia, (two); Canada, (one); and South Africa (one) scored at the last Olympic Games, and it is more than likely these ramparts of Empire will be even more to the fore next summer. Much will be expected of South Africa, remembering the record of R. E. Walker and C. Heferon. In S. H. Patching (sprinter) K. McArthur (Marathon runner) South Africa has the back bone of a splendid team, all three being possible Olympic champions.

A CHRISTMAS JAUNT.

Few men of 44 years of age would care to take on a run to Brighton and back as a sort of appetiser for their Christmas dinner. This is what a professional runner named C. W. Hart did however, and his task was made all the harder through the rain and heavy roads. The distance from London to Brighton and back is 103 miles, and Hart reached the half journey in 7 hours 59 mins. The conditions were so bad coming home that he had to walk some miles, but managed to finish his task in 18 hours, 47 mins. T. E Hammond, an amateur, has walked the double journey in 18 hours 13 mins. 37secs. and L. Hurst, a professional, ran the outward journey in 6 hours 34mins. 50secs. in 1803.

BOXING.

The crowd invariably sympathises with the smaller man in a fight and this no doubt. was the reason that five out of six sportsmen wanted Langford to win against MacVea in their twenty rounds contest at Sydney on Boxing Day. It appears to have been a fine contest, and though the decision in favour of MacVea did not please the crowd, such an experienced referee as Snowy Baker is hardly the sort to make any mistake.

The question now occupying the minds of sportsmen is "will Johnson take on MacVea. The latter certainly has claims, and whilst a championship between the two coloured men will not prove the same attraction as when white and coloured meet, there seems nothing else to expect just yet. No doubt we shall see an alteration in due course, and when one recails such men as Tom Sayers, Jem Mace, C. Mitchell, Bob Fitzsimons of England, J. C. Lenan, J. L. Sullivan, Jem Corbett, and Jim Jeffries of America, and Frank Slavin of Australia, it only seems reasonable to expect that the white race will again come into its own.

Apropos of this, Bomb. Wells thinks of going to America in the near future, and if he is properly handled, he ought to do well. Before a white hope can reach the top however, there are some stiff obstacles to be surmounted, as illustrated by Johnson, MacVea, Langford and Jeannette, a warm quartette.

FOOTBALL.

The Northern Union frequently gains recruits from the Rugby Union ranks, but far from this being anything to regret, the writer considers it beneficial. All men are not built in the same mould or hold the same views about amateurism. Further, many men really cannot afford to live up to their ideals, and it is well we have an outlet for players who do not enjoy the means to be genuine amateurs. This leads to more honesty in football than in those pastimes where participants have few chances to compete for money, and it is a pity runners are virtually forced to compete as amateurs or not at all.

The latest convert to Northern Unionism is E. L. Jackett, the famous Cornish and Leicester player. He recently secured a berth in Dewsbury, and created a surprise by turning out for the Northern Union team of that town on Saturday. His debut was satisfactory, and the manner he took the place kicks delighted the spectators. Jackett is a Cornishman, and led his native county when Cornwall won the Championship. He first gained International fame in 1906, and is one of the few players who have represented England against Scotland, Ireland, Wales, France and some of the Colonial teams.

ASSOCIATION.

The Christmas holiday matches always provide some startling results and we got a few during the festival. For instance, Tottenham Hotspur scored five goals on entertaining Woolwich Arsenal, but on going to Plumstead for the return match the following day, the Arsenal men prevailed by 3 goals to 1. Christmas Day hardly seems quite the time for hard football and possibly the Sunderland players were disinclined for their work when called on to meet Sheffield Wednesday, as illustrated by the success of the Yorkshiremen by no fewer than 8 goals to 0. Another big scoring game was seen when Aston Villa entertaining Oldham, the home side putting on half a dozen goals to the one by the visitors.

Newcastle United managed to retain the top place in the League table during the holidays, a defeat by Preston being counterbalanced by victory over Oldham, whilst honours were shared with Sheffield United.

THE SECOND LEAGUE.

Matters are somewhat different in the Second Division, in which Derby County has forged to the front, thanks to two splendid wins over Grimsby and another over Notts Forest. In the meanwhile, Hull City lost ground, for whilst victory (4-0) was secured on meeting Birmingham, the latter turned the tables (5-1) in the return match. Steve Blomer seems to be almost as good as ever, and he has played an important part in enabling Derby County to go to the head of affairs. With a record of 29 points for 19 matches and the splendid goal average of 45 for and only 13 against.

The Southern League tournament also provided some sensational results during the holidays, the biggest being the loss of Swindon's home record when entertaining Brighton, the leaders going down by 3 goals to 1.

Fortunately for Swindon however, Queen's Park Rangers also failed at home when receiving Norwich City, so that the relative positions of the first and second teams remained the same. The Swindon men soon recovered their form and well beat Stoke on Christmas day, the return fixture on Boxing day also yielding two points.

THE TURF.

The proposal of the National Hunt Stewards that the lowest and highest weight for the Grand National should be 140 lbs. and 175 lbs. respectively, did not commend itself to the Liverpool officials, which is rather a pity. Offering encouragement to moderate performers by a low scale of weights does not produce crack chasers, of which we have few now-a-days. The small stakes for Steeplechases is another reason we are badly off for cracks, as whilst the increase of the value of the Grand National is £3,500 is a good move, the Lancashire Steeplechase is the only other really rich race. This is in big contrast to French steeplechasing, where the Grand Steeplechase de Paris is worth between £6,000 and £7,000. Touching on the value of steeplechases, the initial Grand National was a sweepstake of 20 sovereigns with 100 sovereigns added, for gentlemen riders. The course was four miles across country and one of the conditions stated that no rider should open a gate or ride through a gateway. There were 29 jumps in all, but none were really severe. The more modern conditions may be said to date from 1885, when the course was railed in entirely. The nature of the jumps have undergone many changes and the obstacles are indeed stiff nowadays, though perhaps some of the old fashions Irish steeplechases were more severe. For instance, a six miles race with half a dozen 5 ft stone walls used to be run in Ireland, and this was a real test of the courage of both horse and rider.

IN GENERAL.

A strange match was decided at Richmond, on Tuesday. H. Blackstaffe, the Olympic champion sculler, met G. A. Olley a record breaking cyclist in rowing and cycling races of one mile. Blackstaffe was handicapped by having a heavy cox and Olley had to ride a roadster bicycle, whilst Blackstaffe had the use of a racer. The handicap proved excellent, for Olley won the rowing race by a length and Blackstaffe scored in the cycling event by a foot.

Lord Derby's Swynford has made a wonderful recovery from his accident, a broken fetlock, and can now walk about his box with hardly a trace of lameness.

Tom Reece had a very easy task against H. W. Stevenson in their heat of the B, and W. billiard tournament, the Oldham man scoring 7,500 points to his rival's 3,678.

A feature of the Rugby match between Cardiff and Watsonian on Christmas day was the fine form of F. Holbrook as wing three quarter, his brilliancy having a lot to do with the success (11 points to 0) of the Welshmen.

J. Foster, late of New Zealand, was strongly fancied to win the 100—220 yards handicap at the Cardiff Stadium on Tuesday, but he had to rest content with second place, victory going to S. Davis of Risca.

W. R. Wright, the Army cross-country champion runner, gained a fine victory in the Surrey A. C. five miles level race on Saturday.

The county hockey match between Cheshire and Lancashire on Saturday ended in the success of the former, two goals to 1.

A feature of the racing at Kempton Park on Bank Holiday was the success of horses owned by husband and wife—Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Watts.

Cardiff is the latest place where the police have forbidden boxing matches for money.

THE ASHE MURDER CASE.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

MADRAS, JAN. 16.

Before the Special Tribunal this morning Mr. C. E. Napier, Public Prosecuter, resumed the address for the Crown in the Ashe Murder Case. He said that the whole of August, 1910 was spent by Nilakantan in Shencottah and Curtallum in proceeding with the work of conspiracy and referred to the letters which passed between the different accused. The meeting of Madasamy from the East Coast, Chidambaram from Tankasi, Vanchi from Punalur and Nilakantan from Tanjore could only be accounted in the manner alleged by the prosecution, and that was to conspire. Counsel dealt with other letters and pointed out how they conclusively proved the existence of conspiracy. Not an atom of evidence had been produced by the defence to show that Arumugam had been acquainted with Madaswamy or had any dealings with him in any other way. There was Armugam endeavouring to obtain the "Life of Arabindo Ghose" from Pondicherry and when he failed in the attempt he asked Vanchi Iyer for it. The nature of this publication was indicated in the following para :—"Whether we live or die our aim should be to try and live as an independent nation." Counsel had not concluded the address when the Court rose for lunch.

SHOOTING AFFRAY AT KARACHI.

Another Report.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

KARACHI, JAN. 16.

Regarding the shooting at two officers by a man of the 29th Baluchis on Saturday in the Orderly Room of the Regiment, it is stated that the actual motive of the crime is under investigation. The man, it appears, did not intentionally fire the second shot at the Jemadar, who was standing near at that time; it is stated that the second shot was also intended for the Subedar. The occurrence took place with great suddenness. The man did not run amok in the usual application of that term. He apparently had only one object in view, namely to shoot the Subedar, which he did. The fact of a British officer having escaped by getting into the adjoining room, which was mentioned in the previous message of Sunday, is denied.

THE next meeting of the Legislative Council of Fort St. George, Madras, will be held in the new Council Chamber on 14th February.

THE TROUBLES IN PERSIA.

Lord Lamington's Serious View.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, JAN. 16.

At the gathering convened by the Persia Committee in the London Opera House yesterday, a letter was read, from Lord Lamington, in which his lordship expressed regret that he was unable to attend.

The letter declared that whilst Germany is complacently looking on at the complications accumulating for us, and whilst the Mussulman world is gazing with dismay at our subservience, our vision is obscured by the uplifting of the Anglo-Russian Convention, whenever Persian independence receives a stab. To save Persia as a buffer state was worth an effort, however rash rather than to allow ourselves to drift to the many worse perils which await us should Russia become supreme in Teheran.

Sympathetic letters were also received from other prominent persons, including Lord Roberts, and from the Mahomedans of Madras, and the All-India Moslem League, Lucknow.

The spacious auditorium was crammed and a number of well-known members of Parliament were present.

A resolution expressing deep concern at the Persian situation was carried unanimously.

The Government has established peace and order and will maintain it. It is satisfactory to note that the 64 men said to be concerned in the attack on the Consul, Mr. Smart, have been arrested and will be tried by the Court of Justice, and the perpetrators of the attack will be punished.

MR. LABOUCHERE'S DEATH.

End of a Great Journalist's Career.

LONDON, JAN. 16.

The death is announced of Mr. Labouchere at Florence.

[The Right Hon. Henrry Labouchere, P. C.; journalist, and proprietor of "Truth" was born in London in 1831. He was the eldest son of the late John Labouchere, of Brooms Park, Surrey, and nephew of the late Lord Taunton. He was educated at Eton. In 1854 he entered the diplomatic service, and was successively at Washington, Munich, Stockholm, Frankfort, St. Petersburg and Dresden. At Constantinople he was appointed 2nd Secretary in 1863, and in the following year he left the service. It is said that at Constantinople he failed to put in an appearance at the appointed time, and formal inquiry was made as to the reason for the delay. In due course a letter arrival at the Foreign Office, stating that as inadequate provision had been made for his travelling expenses, and that as his private means were limited the attache was walking, and would in due time reach the shores of the Bosphorus. Many stories are told of his independent spirit during the time he was in the public service. When at Washington it is said, an irate countryman called and demanded to see the British Minister. "Not here! Then I shall wait till he comes," "Very well," replied the attache, "pray take a chair." The visitor waited and waited. "Was the Minister likely to be in in another hour?" "I think not," replied the imperturbable attache, blandly. "The fact is, he sailed for Europe on Wednesday, and can hardly yet have reached Queenstown. But, you know, you said you would wait till he came in, so I offered you a chair."

On leaving the diplomatic service Mr. Labouchere entered Parliament as Liberal member for Windsor. This was in 1865, but the following year he was unseated on petition, and then for a year (1867-8) he sat for Middlesex. In 1874 he unsuccessfully contested Nottingham; but in 1880 he was returned, with Mr. Bradlaugh as his colleague for Northampton. In the House he always took an independent attitude, and invariably commanded a hearing. His speeches, often cynical, were always original, and besides being lively in debate, he was a hard hitter. He always declined office, and was always a keen critic of office-seekers, and people who want a handle to their name. In his personal influence he was much aided by being the owner of "Truth." He was also part proprietor of the "Daily News," a journal which is always trenchant in its criticisms of the vanities, follies, and wickedness of all classes. One special feature of "Truth" is its unearthing and exposing of scandals and frauds, and Mr. Labouchere consequently had to defend many actions for libel.

As a journalist Mr. Labouchere made his mark as special correspondent of the "Daily News" during the siege of Paris. His letters of "A Besieged Resident" made a great sensation. He was rich; and a man of the world. He was an omnivorous reader, but a small eater. Except at the stern command of his physician, it is said, he did not touch wine for years, and then the order was confined to a single glass of claret daily. He was equally indifferent to eating and surroundings; would dine quite willingly at a ham-and-beef shop, and sleep in an attic quite as comfortably as in a palace. He dressed so badly that Sir Charles Russell once accused him of doing so in order to reduce the damages in an action for libel; and he would, if possible, order his boots by the score from a machine-made boots shop in his beloved Northampton. Of all the things that wealth can buy he cared only for one, and that was the cigarettes he smoked. These were always of the choicest brand.

In 1892 Mr. Labouchere was returned as a Gladstonite, and was a strong supporter of Mr. Gladstone. He specially attacked the House of Lords, and framed, in 1893, a short Act which aimed at putting an end to "hereditary legislators." He was strongly opposed to Lord Rosebery's Premiership, and favoured the claims of Sir William Harcourt.

Thirty-three years ago Mr. Labouchere left "The World," which he had founded in co-operation with Mr. Edmund Yates, and started "Truth." It cost him exactly £5—the price of the now familiar design for the cover. "I go to make another and a better world," was his characteristic way of announcing his new venture.

Whatever opinion may be held of Mr. Labouchere's publication, it is certainly the case that its proprietor secured a staff which worked for him with enthusiasm. "Everybody loves Labby. He is kind-hearted and true, with a hatred of sham, and has always been most loyal to his editor and his staff," is the description given by a gentleman who has contributed to the paper for over 20 years. Up to 1905, when he went to live in Florence, Mr. Labouchere spent a great deal of time in the office, writing political notes and articles, which he rarely signed, and correcting proofs. He was noted for being a hard worker, and one who was never afraid to back his opinions. It is interesting—when it is remembered how frequently "Truth" has appeared in the courts—to learn that out of all the actions fought in the first 20 years, only two resulted in substantial damages, one of these turning on the precise position of a village pump. Through placing the pump on the wrong side of the street the paper had to pay £100 damages and heavy costs. In nine cases which followed during the next decade four were won and one was settled in court, each party paying its own costs. Only three went against the paper. Mr. Labouchere, like his journal, has been behind the scenes in many historic events. It was in his house, and in the presence of himself and Sir G. Lewis, that the forger Pigott confessed his crime, after Lord Russell's famous cross-examination had cut the ground from under his feet. Mr. Labouchere also played a conspicuous part in connection with the "Round Table" transactions when Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Chamberlain parted company. Probably the longest case in which he was concerned was the Zierenburg trial, which lasted 21 days and cost £7,000. The late Lord Russell of Killowen got one of his early briefs in a "Truth" case, and Sir Frank Lockwood was also engaged in several of his actions.]

THE MUSSOORIE TRAGEDY.

Further Evidence.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

DEHRA DUN, JAN. 16.

The trial of Miss Mount Stephen for the wilful murder of Miss Garnett Orme was continued yesterday.

Mr. Burton, District Superintendent of Police, who was examined by the prosecution, produced Miss Orme's account book from January 1889 to May 1908 with the later leaves in which no purchase of drugs was found.

A letter, from the Hon. Mr. Slacke, was read in which he says he first heard of Miss Mount Stephen in April, 1911, when Miss Garnett Orme wrote to him about her will. The accused had not informed him when the deceased was ill, and the accused had not met Miss Orme at his house at Darjeeling as stated by her. He knew of no relationship between the accused and Miss Orme.

The statement of Madam Sakaloisky was read out as to several dresses made for Miss Mount Stephen and paid for by Miss Orme from July to September, amounting to Rs. 987, also that the deceased had come to the shop on September 16, with some real black lace and asked to be allowed to see the dress being made before she went down.

A statement from Messrs. Thos. Cook & Son. was next read to the effect that Miss Orme wired for a single berth on the 5th of April, 1911, and wrote on the 7th April, countermanding the order. Miss Mount Stephen wrote about the 6th September for a berth in March, 1912, but could not decide till October, and said she was an officer's daughter and wished to be put with an officer's wife, and that she wished to pay the passage money in England.

THE NURSE'S STATEMENT.

The statement of the nurse of Miss Orme was then read, which said that on the 2nd July, she found the deceased apparently unconscious. She could not say quite unconscious. She gathered that the deceased had been able to hear, though unable to speak. Nurse Griffiths slept in the dressing-room and the accused near the deceased. The accused told her that the deceased's condition was due to her having reached a certain age. She had seen nothing that proved it. The accused asked her if she thought Miss Orme's condition was due to taking drugs. She answered in the negative. She asked the accused if she did take drugs. The accused said no. Dr. Osborne agreed that the deceased had reached a certain period in her life that accounted for her condition. The witness said Miss Orme did not walk in her sleep nor was she hysterical except on one occasion when she received a letter from the police at Lucknow, to say a suspicious person was in her house meaning Miss Mount Stephen.

Nurse Griffiths stated that Miss Orme did not sleep on her back and did not arrange her night dress, but she liked her hair loose. The deceased liked Dr. Osborne and was always pleased to see him. Witness had been told that the deceased did not like him, but she did. The accused had suggested that she should stay with Miss Orme, when accused went to Lucknow, but no actual proposals were made to her in September.

The statement of Mrs. Strong, which was read, was as follows:—She had spoken to Miss Orme at 10 p.m. on the night of the 18th, on the verandah. The deceased looked very well and cheerful.

The statement of Mrs. Aleyn said that Miss Orme was an old friend of hers. Miss Mount Stephen had come to her one day in great agitation, saying she had found a white powder. She thought it was arsenic.

Miss Mount Stephen was next cross-examined by Mr. Harper. She said Miss Orme never took bicarbonate of soda, but she bought it for her. She went to Jhansi the day before. She identified her letter to Dr. Osborne making an appointment. The letter was:—"Sorry I did not see you at 12 o'clock. Can you see me after lunch in Mrs. Schneider's room." The accused said that she had written two letters to Dr. Osborne, one in Mrs. Schneider's room, and one in Mrs. Foster's room. She only saw Dr. Osborne once in Mrs. Foster's room. The accused said Nurse Griffith's statement was correct. She had said to Nurse Griffiths, she could not find any drugs. The accused stated that Miss Orme did not wish to have any banking account of her own, and that, as her money was sent out, it should be put to accused's account. She also stated that Miss Orme had wished her to go to Lucknow in August, with Mrs. Aleyn, to see her dog. She then suggested she should go as far as Rajpore or Dehra Dun with Mrs. Aleyn and stop the night, when the accused remarked that she seemed very anxious to get rid of her. The deceased said it was only to give her a change.

Mr. Ewing, barrister, for the defence, said he wished to address the Court as the evidence was completed.

FACTS IN THE CASE.

Mr. Boys. for the prosecution, said in that case he would put a few facts before the Court first.

Mr. Boys: "Was it a natural death? Facts were against it. Was it an accident! Facts proved it was not. As to the probability of suicide there was no motive. The accused made much of the presentiment of death, but presentiments do not kill. Six years before, the deceased had a presentiment of her death, which she mentioned in a letter to Mrs. Wilson. There were three reasons for murder; enmity, robbery and benefit under her will. There was no evidence for the two first. No robbery had been committed, and it would be strange if any one should use the same poison as that purchased by Miss Orme. The only motive was, under the will, if we may say Miss Mount Stephen had a motive. Did she know the murder was to be committed? We have the fact of the chemist's bill of the 1st July as the purchase of veronal, and. Dr. Osborne's prescription on the night of the 1st July, after Miss Orme's serious attack, that on August 1st there was the purchase of veronal at Samuel's followed by another attack. The accused said she had found no drugs. The deceased purchased a bottle of sulphonal thirteen years ago in England. Since then there is no purchase of drugs in her detailed accounts. On the 8th August, she purchased arsenic. The accused knew of the purchase and believed it was for the protection of pictures, but could not point out the pictures that came from Mussoorie. We doubt if any were up there and none were damaged. The accused told us at the inquest that she and Mrs. Aleyn saw arsenic in the list of purchases, while Mrs. Aleyn's own statement shows that the accused mentioned that she had found a white powder. This powder she could not have seen, for from the day that it was purchased to the day it was found by Mr. Burton, the seal had not been broken. The accused states that Miss Orme never used bicarbonate of soda, but we find the wrapper of the bicarbonate round the arsenic in Miss Orme's box and the soda in the box at Jhansi without a wrapper. We find, on the accused's own statement, that, when going down, she destroyed all medicines and gave the servants the bottles to sell. The only three things left were a bottle of veronal, a label for arsenic and a label for prussic acid; further, that she left a bottle of heliotrope-coloured sleeping-draught though all the chemists say they did not sell her this. The teeth, we would ask you to believe, were taken down to Miss Mount Stephen. After the enquiry it would be absurd to think that the deceased or a robber would have wrapped up the teeth in tissue paper and placed them in a dentist's box. The teeth at Jhansi still contained food in the palate, and it was contrary to all the deceased's habits that she should have put them in that state in an enema box. The Chemical Examiner proved there was tartar on the broken part, so that they must have been used in that condition. Then there was accused's statement to Nurse Griffiths that she had looked for drugs and had not found them when on that date, the 1st of July, veronal had been purchased and must have been somewhere. Who purchased the poison? Both statements by the chemists are not worth the paper they are written on. On both they say they are not sure who purchased them. We have only the signatures to fall back on. They are very characteristic, but not as Miss Orme signed them in her letters.

UNTRUE STATEMENTS.

"As for the reason for buying the poisons we are sure that if the accused had asked the deceased she would have done so. When the acensed nsod her influence, in one wire and in oue letter, the deceased changed her mind about going home. We will not go into her financial dealings with Miss Orme to show how utterly unreliable the accused's statements are. They are uncorroborated by other evidence. First, Mrs. Schneider, much against her will, tells how she gave the accused the details of Miss Orme's death on her way up. Then, at the inquest, the accused gives details of how the deceased used to go to sleep, which Nurse Griffiths' statement gives the lie to. Her account of meeting Miss Orme at Mr. Slacke's house at Darjeeling is untrue. The statement of deceased being in a dying condition is untrue. The letter to Miss Keatinge that the deceased had three doctors and nurses night and day is untrue."

In conclusion, Mr. Boys asked the Court to charge the accused with wilful murder of Miss Garnet Orme and also as an accomplice to the murder.

THE AGA KHAN IN KARACHI.

Mahomedan Address of Welcome.

KARACHI, JAN. 16.

Last evening the Sind Mahomedan Association on behalf of themselves and Mahomedans of the Province of Sind, presented an address at Khalikdina Hall, Karachi, to His Highness the Aga Khan offering him a hearty welcome to the capital of the province, and congratulating him on the further marks of His Majesty's favour of which he was the recipient at the Delhi Durbar. Amongst those present were Khan Bahadur Sheikh Sadik Ali, President of the Association, Vazir of Khairpur State, who came down from Khairpur for the purpose, the Hon'ble Mr. De P. Webb, Mr. H. S. Lawrence, Collector of Karachi, and representatives of all communities and the precincts of the hall were crowded by a number of His Highness' followers and the general public. The address was presented in a handsome silver casket of local manufacture, and referred to the various acts of His Highness in the cause of Mahomedan education, particularly the Moslem University Scheme. It also referred to various rights and privileges conceded to Indians by the Government through His Highness' intercession and exersions, the foremost being the Reform scheme. Reference was made to His Highness' efforts in Hindu-Mahomedon Peace Conference, and in conclusion, the address said that the Mahomedans would not forget the pregnant words uttered by His Highness at the last session of the League:—"Our loyalty to the Throne must be absolute and our relations with Hindus and other communities who share that loyalty must frankly be most cordial."

His Highness replied briefly. He thanked the Vazir Sahib and others for their presence in the hall to receive him and the Mahomedan Association for their address. The Association had reminded him that he was a native of Karachi, and though he lived in the Deccan, he had always felt interest in the province which was full of his co-religionists and was indeed essentially a Mahomedan country. They had kindly referred to his humble service in the awakening of Mahomedans of India. That work had been the outcome of Mahomedan revival during the past few years. He felt that the Mussalmans of the Province had a great opportunity, and it was for them to take advantage of those opportunities. Recent great changes announced in Delhi, he felt would do India a lot of good. Territorial changes in Bengal, while taking away some advantages from Mussalmans of Eastern Bengal, would also bring them many advantages. The transfer of the Capital to Delhi would also do Sind a great deal of good and it was for Sind Mahomedans to take advantage of those changes. It was a matter for regret that while in the Deccan and Gujerat and in Madras there were branches of the All-India Moslem League, that no steps had been taken to form a branch in an essentially Mahomedan province like Sind. As regards the treatment of Indian in South Africa, which there was much cause for resentment, he felt it his duty to warn them that to the large extent the treatment was the result of their own fault owing to backwardness of the majority of Indians in social and intellectual progress. Greater efforts were needed for national self-improvement and education. It was not merely sufficient to send boys to school, That would give only parrot-like education, enlightenment and social progress were needed. As regards the Moslem University Scheme every leader was of opinion that it was needed and he was in a position to inform them that the Government had agreed to grant them a Charter immediately the sum required viz., 35 lakhs had been raised. Towards this twenty lakhs had already been secured. 35 lakhs was a mere fleabite when the wealth of Moslems of India was considered, and he regretted to note that Sind had done practically nothing to further the scheme. Of course he knew that some thought that primary education was more urgently required but they did not sufficiently appreciate the merits of the University scheme which also aimed at the establishment of colleges at various centres. Referring to the question of removal of the Sind Madrassa from its crowded surroundings to more open country he was in sympathy with the project and saw in it potentials for the foundation of Sind Moslem Colleges affiliated to the University, which would carry education to the length and breadth province, till education would no longer be the prerogative of a few, but every Zamindar would apply to his work and the cultivation of latest scientific knowledge. But with the exception of His Highness the Mir of Khairpur, the fame of whose munificent generosity had spread all over India even to the remotest parts of Bengal. Sind had done nothing to further the University scheme and he enjoined house to house collection scheme and commenced plan of contribution on the basis of a months' salary of subscribers. While impressing on them the duties of self-reliance and self-sacrifice he asked forgiveness for making the occasion one for offering advice, but he would not be doing his duty to city of his birth unless he did so. In the course of his reply His Highness also referred to the need for national unity between Hindus and Musalmans of India.

Mantri, Miss Davar, Mrs. Cassamli Jaffarbhoy, Mrs. and Miss Chinoy, Mrs. Fraser and others.

THE REPORT.

The proceedings commenced with a song by Miss Yamuna Kirtikar. Mrs. Nandabai Sarya the Secretary, then read the report, in the course of which it was stated: "During the past year as in previous years the severity of plague was greater in the neighbourhood of the Club, and consequently no meeting took place from March to June. Notwithstanding this, it gives us pleasure to say that 31 weekly meetings took place at the Chanda Ramjee High School; the average attendance at such meetings was of about 20 to 25 members. At these meetings, as usual various essays both in Marathi and Gujerathi were read and discussed and fancy plain and useful needle-work was done; this needle-work will be exhibited and placed for sale at the conclusion of to-day's meeting. It is the rule of this Club that from the proceeds of the sale thus made together with the sum collected from the voluntary contributions given by members in addition to the subscription a part should be spent in buying work materials and the rest should go to help benevolent and educational objects. Accordingly, out of the total sum of Rs. 420 so realised last year, Rs. 150 were spent in buying materials to make garments, etc., for this year's sale, Rs. 100 were sent to the Gujrat Famine Fund and a prize of Rs. 15 was given to be competed for, for proficiency in needle-work by the pupils of the Chanda Ramjee High School, noncesionally; and it gives us pleasure to state that the prize was won by Miss Shantabai Bramhankar. The remaining Rs. 155 are reserved for some future benevolent or educational object. During the year four New Members were admitted; these together with 86 on the roll at the end of the last year makes us begin the year with the total number of 90 members."

On the motion of Mrs. Shirur seconded by Mrs. M. R. Jayakar, the report was adopted. Lady Thackersey then proposed and Mrs. Sunderdas seconded a vote of thanks to the Executive Committee, which was carried.

HER EXCELLENCY'S SPEECH.

Her Excellency, addressing the assembly, said:—"I thank you all most sincerely for the hearty welcome you have given me this afternoon. I am very glad to be able to preside on this occasion, and to come into touch with so admirable an institution as the Hindu Ladies Social and Literary Club. Bombay is happily advancing in societies of this kind, and it was a fine inspiration on the part of the late Mr. Justice Ranade, to found this Club, which is only one of the many very excellent things for which his memory will ever be revered. In the short time I have been in India I have noticed that no name is more honoured than his, which illustrates the truth of the saying that "Great deeds cannot die," and that as Lowell wrote,

"Every deed which shall outlast life's space
Must spur the soul to be erect and free."

His example is followed by his widow, whose philanthropic works, including the Seva Sadan which I had the pleasure of visiting last season at Poona are well known. Her labours bear the mark of the impulse of love as described by Schiller—

"Have love; not love alone for one,
But man as man thy brother call,
And scatter like the circling sun
Thy charities on all."

The rules of the Club seem to comprise all that tends to encourage the members to lead useful and happy lives. I am glad to hear that the members now number 90 and I trust they will steadily increase in number, and that the Club may be the means of spreading "Friendly feeling" which is object No. 1 in the Club rules and which we all wish to promote. Object No. 2 is equally excellent and nothing does more to advance friendship than work undertaken in common and in the right spirit. "Friendship is the golden thread that ties the hearts of all the world." I do not know if since 1908 funds have been raised to erect a building to contain the Club Library, or if it is still located at the residence of one of the Members. In coming here to-day I hope to learn more about the Club, and the advance it has made in the last four years. I am sure that the Library must be one of the most important needs of a Club of this sort. Good books give one an insight into the lives of others, setting us examples, and thus opening out to us the best means of educating ourselves. "Think what a book is. It is a portion of the Eternal mind, caught in its process through the world, stamped in an instant, and preserved for Eternity." Not only, therefore, should we be careful as to what books we read, and put into the hands of the young to read; but it is almost more important for those who write books to remember that they are "preserved for eternity" and that for good or for evil they must leave their mark on many minds. Ruskin wrote "The only thing of consequence is what we do: and for man, woman or child, the first point of education is to make them do their best." Now, I feel sure that here, all the Members do try to do their best, and that the Club may thrive and flourish is my sincere wish and for the short time that is still left to me in India, I shall continue to take an interest in its well-being."

On the motion of Miss Shirin Curretji, seconded by Mrs. Kothare, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to her Excellency Lady Clarke.

Her Excellency then inspected the sale of work, and the proceedings terminated.

DACCA CONSPIRACY CASE.

Discussion on Misjoinder of Charges.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

CALCUTTA, JAN. 16.

At the High Court to-day, before Justices Harrington, Mukherjee and Caspersz, Mr. Garth who appeared on behalf of the Crown in the Dacca Conspiracy Case replied to the preliminary objections raised by Mr. Das yesterday on behalf of the appellants.

Mr. Garth submitted that the conspiracy extended over five years and is still existing, and it would not be possible to compress the facts in the way suggested. The law did not require anything of the kind. It merely required an allegation that certain people had committed certain offences; nothing more was required. If the Magistrate distrusted the complainant he was not bound to issue process. With regard to the points raised about the partition of Bengal, Mr. Garth said that those points were not raised in the Lower Court. There was no dispute that the Governor-General-in-Council had the right, to make new provinces for the purposes of making laws and regulations.

Counsel could not understand what Mr. Das meant by saying that the Governor-General had no power to transfer districts from one province to another. There was ample power in the Governor-General-in Counsel, with the sanction of the Secretary of State, to transfer certain territories.

CALCUTTA, JAN. 16.

This afternoon Mr. Garth referring to the misjoinder of charges said that in the lower court he wanted to expunge the charges under Section 122 and 123, but a decision of the High Court was in his way. In effect the accused were not tried under those two sections. Their Lordships intimated they would dispose of the preliminary objections in one judgment.

Mr. Das then opened the case on behalf of the appellants. He first narrated briefly the prosecution story which was that there was a great deal of hostility against the partition in 1905 and Mr. Bepin Chandra Pal and Mr. P. Mitter went to Dacca and started a Anusilan Samiti with the object to prepare people to wage war against the King. The Dacca Samiti had five hundred branches. It was a sort of military organisation which was declared illegal in December, 1908. There were schools in the Samiti where books of a revolutionary character were read and lectures were delivered on the means of driving away the English from India.

The defence version was that after the partition of Bengal the feelings between Hindus and Mahomedans were very much strained and the counsel stated a number of instances in support of this theory. The defence alleged that the Samitis were started to protect Hindus from Mahomedan oppression and for national regeneration. The defence also alleged that Mr. Bepin Chunder Pal and Mr. P. Mitter went to Dacca to continue the anti-partition agitation. Counsel then referred to the evidence relating to the meetings held at Dacca in 1905 and had not concluded when the Court rose for the day.

At the High Court to-day, Justices Holmwood and Sharfuddin delivered judgment in the case, in which a rule was issued on behalf of Satish Chandor Sircar against the order of the District Magistrate of Rajshahi, binding the petitioner to keep the peace for one year, under Section 109 of the Criminal Procedure Code. The petitioner was suspected to be connected with the anarchist agitation for purposes of committing dacoity. A warrant was issued against him in the Howrah gang case, but was subsequently withdrawn. The petitioner stated that he was living with his father, a Government pensioner and with his brother, who is a Government servant.

BOMBAY HIGH COURT.

SHORT CAUSES.

JUSTICE Sir Dinshaw D. Davar presided yesterday on the Original Side of the Bombay High Court and disposed of among others, the following short causes:—

CLAIM ON PROMISSORY NOTE.

In the suit brought by the Maharaja of Rewah against Mr. R. G. Baldock, Mr. B. J. Desai appeared for the plaintiff and applied for three weeks' adjournment. Counsel stated that the claim was made on a promissory note of Rs. 1,00,000 and signed by the defendant. The amount was advanced for the purposes of business. The defendant had returned from Australia and had agreed to pay up the amount shortly.

His Lordship granted the application.

A MORTGAGE SUIT.

In the suit brought by Sir Shapurji B. Broacha against Cowasji Jehangir Mody and others, Mr. Jinnah appeared for the plaintiff and applied for a short adjournment. He said that the suit was on a mortgage of property situated at Indore. The first defendant was willing to pay the amount or give up possession. The other defendants were prior mortgages and they were, therefore, brought on record.

His Lordship adjourned the suit for a week.

BRUEL COMPANY'S CLAIM.

In the suit brought by Messrs. Bruel and Company against Rambux Luxmondass, Mr. Inverarity appeared for the plaintiffs; the defendant did not appear.

Mr. Inverarity said that the defendant had consigned cotton to the plaintiffs for sale in Bombay and had drawn hundis, which were paid by the plaintiffs. The sum due at the time of filing the suit was Rs. 5,377, but since then Rs. 1,000 had been paid.

His Lordship passed a decree for the balance with interest and costs.

COTTON DEALERS' SUIT.

In the suit brought by Messrs. B. Campbell and Company against Shivdayalmul Nanalal, Mr. B. J. Wydia, appeared for the plaintiffs; the defendant did not appear.

Counsel said that the suit was filed to recover Rs. 3,963, being the loss sustained by the plaintiffs on the purchase of American cotton on behalf of the defendant, who had sent a wire from Patiala for the purchase of the goods, but, as the market began to decline, the defendant, in spite of repeated demands, did not send the balance of the money and the goods were re-sold.

His Lordship passed a decree for the plaintiffs for the amounts claimed with interest and costs.

CLAIM ON HUNDIS.

In the suit brought by Talakchand Hemraj against Jadavji Morarji and others, Mr. Rustim J. Mody appeared for the plaintiff and asked to recover Rs. 6,000 on six hundis. Counsel stated that the parties had dealings and the defendants became indebted to the plaintiff in the sum of Rs. 24,000. As the defendants were insolvent, the claim was compromised and the defendants passed hundis for Rs. 6,000. Nothing had been paid since.

His Lordship passed a decree with costs.

POLICE COURTS.

MASTER OF PILGRIM SHIP CHARGED.

Yesterday, at the Esplanade Police Court, before Rao Bahdur Chunilal H. Setalvad, Third Presidency Magistrate, Mr. C. R. Watkins, Assistant Collector of Customs, charged Captain L. McBean and Dr. H. E. Clark of the Bombay Hadjaj Steam Navigation Company's s. s. "Shah Jehan" with not keeping lavateries of the steamer in a proper state during the voyage from Bombay to Jeddah and back, an offence under Rules 62 (2) and 76 and Rules 62 (3) and 86 respectively, punishable under Section 50 of the Pilgrim Ships Act. The charge against the accused further was that they allowed the hospital on board to be used for the accommodation of pilgrims who were not-sick and that they received on board after leaving Aden on the return voyage a pilgrim in contravention of Section 7, clause 2 of the Pilgrim Ships Act.

Some evidence was recorded and the further hearing was adjourned.

TAXI-CAB DRIVER CHARGED.

Exceeding the Speed Limit.

Yesterday, at the Esplanade, Police Court, before Mr. A. H. S. Aston, Chief Presidency Magistrate, Inspector Barnes charged Nowroji Pestonji, a taxi-cab driver, with rash and negligent driving so as to endanger human life or in the alternative, with exceeding the speed limit. Mr. Hormusdyar P. H. Dastur, Barrister-at-law, appeared for Jetha Hansraj while Mr. Godinho, pleader, defended the accused.

The charge against the accused was that a man named Jetha Hansraj was crossing Queen's Road to go to the Hindu Burial Ground, when he was knocked down by a motor car driven by the accused. The man was in the middle of the road, when the car came up at a speed of about seventeen miles an hour and knocked him down. He was more or less seriously injured and removed to hospital for treatment.

The defence was that the accused had not driven his car at an excessive speed or in a negligent manner. He blew the horn, when Jetha Hansraj got confused, and tried to dodge the car and the left-hand mudguard caught him and knocked him down.

His Worship convicted the accused on the alternative charge of exceeding the speed limit and sentenced him to pay a fine of Rs 15.

A PRINCE'S COMPLAINT.

Yesterday, at the Esplanade Police Court, before Mr. A. H. S. Aston, Chief Presidency Magistrate, the further hearing was resumed of the case, in which Kumar Shri Mansur Khachar of Jasdan charged Mr. Abdoola Khakibhoy Readymoney with disposing of stolen property. Mr. Godinho, pleader, appeared for the complainant; while Mr. Payne, Solicitor, defended the accused. Mr. Velinker, Barrister-at-law, instructed by Mr. Ferreira, Solicitor, watched the case on behalf of Mr. Chunilal D. Saraiya.

The complainant was further cross-examined by Mr. Payne, he said the accused told him some bangles were missing, whereupon he took him to Mr. Lambert. The accused there made a statement, in which he mentioned only a necklace and two or three articles, which did not belong to the complainant. Witness did not remind the accused that he had made no mention about the bangles. He had not made a calculation as to the sum total of the amount he and Craig had received from all parties on the jewellery. His idea that he was cheated was no guess work. He engaged Messrs McDermot and Minaham to search for the missing jewellery. He told them that the bangles were missing. The bracelets shown him now were substituted ones and they never belonged to him.

Some more evidence was recorded and the further hearing adjourned.

HOCKEY IN THE STADIUM.

Yesterday afternoon, in the Stadium at the Exhibition of Old Bombay, the third round of the Open Hockey Tournament was commenced by a match between the combined Schools' team and that of the Pioneers. The Pioneers first took up the attack, but the Schools' team retaliated and forced a corner which they did not convert. Play was even for a time until gradually the Pioneers forwards crept up and pressed. Cabinetwalla saved well from a left wing effort, but was beaten a moment later by a close range shot by Kapadia. More pressing by the Pioneers and then a fine but abortive run was made by the boys. The tackling and combination of the Pioneers was the more scientific, and they returned to the attack, the game being carried on within the Schools' striking circle. Another rush was made by the boys, the centre forward trying strenuously to score, but the Pioneers' backs cleared. However, play became more even just before half-time. Score:

The Pioneers opened the attack once again in the second half, but the Schools' backs put up a stubborn attack and, running down, forced a penalty corner, which Cupper converted cleverly. The Pioneers rushed away from the centre "bully", but their shooting was somewhat wild, and Cupper at back worked energetically and was always on the man with the ball. Even exchanges followed, although play was fast and interesting, and then the Pioneers pressed, forcing a penalty corner. The Pioneers were now having the better of the game, the hitting of the Schools' backs becoming somewhat disorganised. A clever left wing run was made by the boys, but the centre was not taken advantage of. The Schools' team were making a strong effort to avoid defeat. Once when the Pioneers' goal-keeper ran out an open goal was left and no one was there to take advantage of the chance. Fast up and down rushes ensued, and then Canteenwallah made a clever save from a shot by Downes. There was more pressing by the Pioneers, and time came with an even score.

An extra five minutes was played each way, and soon after the start, Downes passed beautifully to the inside left, who scored for the boys as neatly. The Pioneers attacked, but, although there were many close attacks on Cabinetwalla's goal. Time came in favour on the Schools.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS:—Are you broken in your rest by a sick child suffering with the pain of cutting teeth? Go at once to a chemist and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor sufferer immediately. It is perfectly harmless and pleasant to taste, it produces natural, quiet sleep, by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It soothes the child, it softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for dysentery and diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other cases. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup is sold by Medicine dealers everywhere.

DECREASING NERVE FORCE.

How the Weakness may be completely restored.

Few conditions are more depressing on the one hand and irritating on the other than those which arise from a gradual failing of nerve force. The unfortunate sufferer feels his strength gradually ebbing away, and is, every day, more conscious that he is less able to perform his allotted task until it seems as if the only course open to him is to resign his office. It is not that he wants relaxation, for he has as little energy for play as for work. The consequence is, he has an ever-increasing tendency to withdraw from society, and that, as everyone knows, is the worst possible condition for any human being to be in. We all need to associate with our kind, that we may brush the cobwebs from our brain and maintain our interest in everything around us.

It is under such conditions that men, and women too, tend to wreck their lives. To combat the feeling of weakness, they fly to alcohol on the one hand or to drugs on the other. The consequence is, that before they know where they are they have become slaves to habits from the thraldom of which they would give anything to escape.

THIS IS THE REASON WHY.

Happily, an easy way exists out of the slavery, if it has, unfortunately, been acquired, as well as from the feeling of weakness. This is through the aid of Sanatogen. It is too late in the day to attempt to sing the praises of this preparation, for its reputation is world-wide, and, among doctors, it enjoys the reputation of a health restorative second to none. Indeed, it is not going too far to say that the medical profession throughout the civilised world now looks upon it as a means of restoring health, and even of saving life, when everything else has failed. As a matter of fact, the number of cases in which doctors have placed it on record that, in their unqualified opinion, Sanatogen has saved the life of their patients, may be counted in hundreds if not in thousands.

Seeing how powerful Sanatogen is, and that its power is primarily directed to the nervous system, it is obvious that it must exercise a profound influence for the better in all cases of decreasing nerve force. It is quite easy to understand why this must be so. Every nerve—and all nervous tissue—needs a certain amount of phosphorus to maintain its condition of health. When this phosphorus is used up too rapidly, through the individual making too great overdrafts on it, a feeling of nerve weakness is established. To overcome this weakness the phosphorus must be restored to its original quantity. The situation is precisely comparable with a man overdrawing his account at the bank. Before he can use his bank again he must make good the overdraft.

REMARKABLE MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Nothing restores the overdraft of phosphorus to the nervous system so rapidly or so easily as Sanatogen. The reason is that the phosphorus it contains is in the same form as is found in the brain and nervous system, and it is chemically combined with the nitrogenous or body-building portion of pure milk, which experience and many experiments have proved is the best possible substance for the purpose.

Sanatogen's power as a nerve tonic has been attested by many of the most distinguished men in the world. In this connection the following analysis of Sir Charles A. Cameron, C.B., M.D., F.R.C.P., D.P.H., Medical Officer of Health and Public Analyst, Dublin, writes:—"I have arrived at the conclusion that Sanatogen is a substance of the highest nutritive value, containing, as it does, a large amount, relatively speaking, of organic phosphorus—that is, phosphorus which is offered to the tissues in exactly the form in which it can be easily absorbed. It is an excellent nerve food."

Dr. Andrew Wilson, that distinguished medical writer who was, himself, restored to complete health by Sanatogen, has also written:—"Sanatogen will be found an excellent remedy in all 'run down' states of the system. The overworked man or woman will benefit from its use, provided it be taken regularly. Its advantage over the ordinary tonics, ranging from iron and quinine to arsenic and strychnine, is that its use does not derange digestion but, contrariwise, assists enfeebled appetite. It repairs the wear and tear of the most vital parts of our frames and, above all, it gives to brain and nerve their essential food in precisely the form in which they are capable of readily receiving and assimilating it."

Sanatogen can be obtained at all chemists and bazaars.

BY THE WAY.

AN AVERTED TRAGEDY.

The story of an averted tragedy, which, if it had not been averted, might have changed the whole course of modern history in Europe, is revived by the death of a retired Austrian forester named Kern. The time was about three weeks after Sadowa; the place was the little village of Pirsdorf, about thirty miles from Vienna. King William of Prussia and Bismarck were there, and they sat down on a terrace, outside a small cafe, to drink beer. Kern saw them. He regarded them as the deadly enemies of his country; he was an excellent marksman, and he had his double-barrelled gun with him. Taking aim from behind cover, he was about to fire, when his wife, seeing what he was after and fearing the consequences, clutched him by the coat-tails. He turned to argue with her; and before the argument was finished the King and his Chancellor had disappeared. So nothing happened; but if Kern had been allowed to fire, there might be no German Empire to-day.

OVER FIFTY YEARS IN CHINA.

The Rev. Dr. Griffith John, the veteran missionary to China, is expected reached England recently. Not many "old China hands" have enjoyed an experience like that of Dr. John. More than half a century ago he sailed for the Far East as a missionary, and since then he has been "a tireless, strenuous, and many-sided worker," in what has always been, and is still, one of the most interesting of countries. The changes that he has witnessed in the life and outlook of the Chinese people have been momentous, and it is not too much to say that at least some credit for the most wholesome of these is due to the influence and teaching of men like Dr. Griffith John, who for long years have laboured ceaselessly for the welfare and happiness of those around them. The greater portion of Dr. John's career has been spent at Hankow.

A DEVOTED WORKER.

No one can read Dr. Griffith John's biography, which appeared a year or two ago, without being struck by the unselfish devotion which he has always shown to his life's work. Again and again he received tempting offers to come home, but no promise of honours would lure him from his labours. Especially has this been the case in times of trouble, and it is not at all surprising to learn that he has gained the respect and confidence of some of China's great and most progressive statesmen, as well as the affection of thousands of the common folk. Dr. John has been, before all things, a preacher, but he early gained a facile command of the Chinese language, and his work in translating portions of the Scriptures and in the preparation of Chinese Christian literature has often been the subject of high praise by men competent to speak on such subjects.

ANTI-SEMITISM IN RUSSIA.

The Russian threat of refusing to allow American Jews in her territory has naturally caused much indignation in the United States. The Senate, however, which discussed the question the other day, did not advise the renunciation of the commercial treaty with Russia, as certain senators suggested that it should. It is, however, quite possible that Washington will retaliate by refusing emigrants from Mongolia permission to land in the United States. The "Frankfurter Zeitung" gives an interesting account of the Russian passport regulations which apply to foreigners, from which it is seen that Jews from any country are subject to special restrictions. There is nothing in the ordinary Russian passport about religion. But the passport has to be vised by a Russian Consul before it can be used.

CERTIFICATE OF BAPTISM FOR TRAVELLERS.

For this purpose a certificate of baptism must be produced. When it is not produced the inference is that the applicant is a Jew. He may, however, still visit Russia for three months if he can prove that he is a commercial traveller. To obtain this permission, which is extended to six months in the case of the ordinary commercial traveller or visitor, a Jew must pay a considerably higher stamp than the Christian, and he will find it a difficult matter to get his passport extended to another three months. To stay one more month he must apply to the Minister of Police in Russia, and for a longer stay his passport must come before the entire Council of Ministers, with the President in the chair. These restrictions on Jewish travellers do not, however seem to have been enforced, in all cases. They are now to be enforced with great strictness against American Jews, who, if the latest report is correct, are to be forbidden in Russia altogether. No reason is assigned for this intolerance, which seems to be an act of retaliation against the appointment of Mr. Morgan Shuster in Persia.

THE SUEZ CANAL SHARE STORY.

Sir Henry Lucy, in the January "Cornhill," tells once more, in a continuation of his "Sixty Years in the Wilderness," the story of the purchase by England of the Khedive's shares in the Suez Canal. As is well known, it was the late Frederick Greenwood who suggested the "deal," particulars of which some may not know. On a certain Sunday night in the spring of 1875 Greenwood, Sir H. Lucy says, chanced to be dining in Bruton-street with Henry Oppenheim, one of the original proprietors of the "Daily News." During a residence in Paris and Egypt that gentleman, just settling down in London, was brought into close connexion with Egyptian financial affairs. On the previous day he heard of the intention of the impecunious Khedive to sell "en bloc" his holding in the capital of the Suez Canal. Greenwood instantly saw the opportunity for a great stroke of State. On leaving Bruton-street he went direct to the private residence of the Foreign Secretary (Lord Derby) and told him of the rare chance. Lord Derby informed the Prime Minister. Inquiry secretly made at Cairo disclosed the fact that the Khedive would "part" for a sum of four millions sterling. But it must be money down.

THE PROMISE OF THE ROTHSCHILDS.

It was, Greenwood told Sir Henry Lucy, on Lord Beaconsfield's personal suggestion that the difficulty, at the moment apparently insuperable, was overcome. The consent of Parliament was necessary to confirmation of the deal. That involved both delay and publicity, either fatal to success. Late on the Thursday night following the Bruton-street dinner, the Premier sent his private secretary, Montagu Corry, to call upon Baron Rothschild, at the time head of the great financial house. Even a Rothschild did not happen to have about him at the moment a trifle of four millions sterling. Nor was it possible in accordance with the traditions of the house, that such a transaction should be entered upon without having been considered in family council. Corry accordingly returned to the Premier without definite reply. It came promptly on the following morning, the terms being that the money would be advanced on a commission of 2 1-2 per cent.

A GOOD WEEK'S WORK.

These terms were pretty stiff, Sir Henry goes on to remark, involving a payment of £100,000. The City heard of them with envy, and they were discussed with much severity when the matter came before the House of Commons. The Rothschilds and their friends defended them on the ground that the colossal transaction involved a certain measure of risk. There was absolutely no security beyond the influence of the Premier, still master of a majority in the House of Commons and pledged to invoke its aid in order to obtain Parliamentary sanction. The whole thing happened between two Sundays. On the first Greenwood dined at Bruton-street; on the second, calling on Lord Derby, he learned that the transaction had been successfully carried through, and was invited to say what form his personal recompense should take. He declined to specify a request protesting he had done nothing but his duty. In later years, Sir Henry adds, his friends heard him speak with natural bitterness of his generous avowal being taken literally.

CARLYLE'S BIRTHPLACE FOR THE NATION.

The committee in charge of the movement for the purchase of the birthplace of Carlyle at Ecclefechan are in a position to make the pleasing announcement that the necessary sum has been subscribed and forwarded to the treasurers of the Trust. There is a probability that a renewed effort will be made in the near future to erect in Edinburgh a suitable Scottish national monument in Carlyle's honour.

BOOKS AND BOOKMEN.

SAINTSBURY ON MILTON.

A reviewer has found fault with Mr. Saintsbury's treatment of Milton in the last volume of the "Cambridge History of English Literature" on the ground that he "does not appear to have formed any unified notion of Milton as an individual, or even to have recognised the need of trying to form one." He does not further explain himself, but apparently his meaning is that Mr. Saintsbury has detached the poetry of Milton from Milton's character and considered it upon its merits as thus isolated. If so, probably Mr. Saintsbury would take the charge very lightly. No doubt he has in his own mind as clear and unified an idea of Milton as an individual as his predecessor Masson, the Milton scholar, had, but he would confess that to consider the poetry in its relation to it was no part of his critical method.

PHYSIOGNOMIC TREATMENT OF POETRY.

To those who are all for what has been called the physiognomic treatment of poetry two concessions may be made. For one thing, all literature is physiognomic. No writer can absolutely keep himself out of his work. Even the thoroughgoing realists who have made it a point of conscience to try to do so have only partially succeeded. In revealing their conception of a section of life they have revealed, at any rate, a corner of their conception of life as a whole, while other elements, although invisible, must in the nature of things have oozed in. Further, the utilisation of poetry as a means of exploring the poet's literary character issues in one of the most charming "genres" in literature. It is by that art that the "literary portrait" is constructed, and there are readers to whom the literary portrait of a poet is more interesting than the poetry itself. On the other hand, if criticism means the appraisal of literature as good or bad and the detection of the elements that make it so, the literary portrait is not criticism. Inasmuch as it aims at exhibiting the convincing picture of a character, although, as in the case of Sainte-Beuve, it may be combined most effectively with criticism, it yet leans less to the science of criticism as thus conceived than to the science of physiology. All this is elementary, and it only remains to add that the physiognomic method is not universally applicable. There is an immense body of literature in the world which we cannot relate to those who produced it other than conjecturally because it is anonymous. Now the first quest of a critic is for a method which may be applied uniformly throughout the whole kingdom of poetry. Mr. Saintsbury has found it in the impression which poetry, wherever found, makes upon his æsthetic perceptions and it is the fact that he has applied this method consistently throughout so large a field that, although it has resulted in many reversals of judgment, gives him his distinctive place among the critics of the day.

GAINING A YEAR.

It is known that one who journeys round the earth eastward gains a day in the year. The fact has been utilised in fiction. Jules Verne utilised it in his "Round the World in Eighty Days," and passed it on to Mr. Kipling for his "Wandering Jew," just as he himself had probably borrowed it from a story of Poe's. The editor of the American "Bookmae," however, suggests that there may have been an actual Phileas Fogg, and tells the story of one who may have served as the original of the character with the delightfully ironical caution that he does so with "all due reservations." An American physician, he tells us, settled at Paris during the Second Empire, and, as he had a large practice among the English-speaking residents there, prospered. After the conclusion of the Franco-German War, however, his wife and two daughters were killed in a railway accident, and thenceforth he was a broken man. He retired from active life and developed eccentricities. Notably he interested himself in the discredited sciences of the Middle Ages. He dabbled in astrology; he experimented in the transmutation of metals, and he sought for the elixir of life. The last he found, but not in the crucible. He discovered the scientific fact above alluded to, and, calculating that he who went round the world three hundred and sixty-five times gained a clear year, concluded that it was necessary only to keep this up to add indefinitely to the years of one's life. This conclusion he confided to certain of his friends, who were so little struck with the momentousness of it that they quietly walked him off to a "maison de sante."

LAFCADIO HEARNE.

Lafcadio Hearne once signed that, if favourably circumstanced, he could have written books that would have gone on selling for twenty years. It is probable that his books, even as they are, will go on selling for much longer than that. He has interested readers on the Continent, and already a Frenchman, M. Joseph de Smet, has written a book on "Lafcadio Hearne, l'homme et l'œuvre." In this country the multitude of readers perhaps hardly know how high Hearne stands in the eyes of competent authorities, and are not likely to know until a uniform edition of his works—of which, unfortunately, there is no work—calls out a general expression of critical opinion. It is in such junctures that lovers of a "speculative proposition" find their opportunity, and there are many collectors on the look-out for first editions. Better still, however, for those who can afford them than early editions are original manuscripts. They are the most personal of all kinds of relics, and, in the case of such a stylist as Hearne, are calculated to shed light upon his literary methods. Interest accordingly attaches to four such which have been listed for sale in New York. They were obtained from Mrs. Hearne, and are all that were in her possession. They include "Glimpses of Unfamiliar Japan," "In Ghostly Japan," "Exotics and Retrospectives," and the translation of Flaubert's "Temptation of St. Anthony."

SCOTTISH PRINTING.

Edinburgh printing has a good name among the publishers of to-day, and such a volume as the Ballantyne Press published two years ago was valuable not only for its typographical excellence and the connection of the Ballantynes with Scott, but also for giving the history of one of the great houses. Mr. Walter B. Blaikie has been giving to the Old Edinburgh Club an account of Scottish printing down to the classic days of Constable. Scotland, it seems, was late in acquiring a printing press. Germany had been printing for sixty years, England for thirty, and even Turkey for fifteen before, in 1508, James IV. personally established the first printing house. It produced chiefly blackletter quarto tracts of no great merit, but a collection of eleven of them is a unique possession of the Advocates' Library. The first periodical published was the "Diurnal Occurences" of 1642, of which only two copies can now be traced. In 1653 appeared the "Mercu," Politicus, and in 1699 the "Edinburgh Gazette," the first periodical with anything like a long life. It was Constable who gave Scottish periodical publication its high position. The "Edinburgh Review" in 1802 was a pioneer in one class and "Blackwood's Magazine" in 1817 was a pioneer in another.

"THE LADY OF THE HUNDRED DRESSES."

Mr. Crockett will not be behind the times. He recognises the demand for sensational fiction, for the short story that is not a short story, and bows to the public taste. His "The Lady of the Hundred Dresses" is produced in a series of episodes in which John Eames," first assistant with the Jewellers' Retail Union of Regent-street, London," is the central figure, the peg on which to hang a variety of thrilling incidents. Mr. Crockett abandons his discursive method, gone is the wealth of meticulous detail which he loved to elaborate his finely finished-pictures. He has chosen a new medium, and conforms to its requirements. But his gift for figure drawing remains unimpaired. John Eames slow and sure, reserved and unimaginative, thrust suddenly into blood-curdling emergencies, is out lined with all Mr. Crockett's skill while Agnes Allison and her following of Scotch-men are a group in which his characteristic humour and charm are once more displayed. He proves he can individualise with a few touches as effectively as with careful analysis; indeed, Agnes Allison can hold her own with any of Mr. Crockett's Scotch lassies, and her well-timed appearances are as welcome to one as they are to John. For the more delicate shades of romance one turns to Claire Almeyer, in character quite as strong as Agnes, though with a different outlook in life, possessing, though moralised, not a few of the qualities which made her brother, Baron Ernest, one of the most successful criminals and adventures in two hemispheres. John Eames makes the acquaintance of Baron Almeyer at the pistol's point, for the Baron had possessed himself of the priceless gems which John was secretly and by a devious route conveying to Amsterdam, and John had returned the compliment with interest by making off with the bag in which not only these gems but all the jewels belonging to the Baron's wife were bestowed.

The Great Channel Swim

Burgess' Endurance and Vitality—

It is the big success, the great deed itself, that proves the wisdom of Burgess in employing Phosferine to provide the endurance and energy which enabled him to swim the Channel. To Phosferine the mighty Yorkshireman owes it that he has achieved more than any other living man, for on this historic occasion he used Phosferine to prepare for his daring and thrilling 23 hours' swim! Comparing his triumph with his previous failures, Burgess declares that the unlimited nerve force derived from Phosferine furnished the endurance to finish his swim successfully this time. Obviously Phosferine was the making of Burgess' great deed, and alike with other innumerable victors who have achieved renown by the invigorating aid of Phosferine, he frankly declares that Phosferine alone provides the force and vitality necessary for continuous mental and physical exertion.

How he made success sure.

Mr. T. W. Burgess, 30, Dover Road, Walmer, Deal, writes:—"I am very pleased to place on record my keen appreciation of Phosferine as a nerve and muscle tonic of the highest order. I have proved from experience the unfailing efficacy of this admirable remedy, and in preparing for this special demand upon my energies, it has been of incalculable benefit to me, and its recuperative effects immediately after my successful Channel Swim were excellent. Its sustaining and strengthening properties are very marked, and for nervous breakdown and feats of physical endurance I consider Phosferine is indispensable."

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, THROAT AFFECTIONS, GENERAL DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE SKIN, WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN, RICKETS, AND ALL SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D., Physician to the Westminster Hospital.

"The value of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, whom it will sustain life when everything else fails."

DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL, Physician to the Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.

"I have convinced myself that in Tuberculous and the various forms of Strumous Disease, DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod Liver Oil, that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."

JOSEPH J. POPE Esq., M.R.C.S. Late Staff Surgeon, Army, Professor of Hygiene, Birkbeck Institution, London.

"I found during my Indian experience that the world and character of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL remained unchanged by tropical heat or foreign climate, and it was, from its uniformity of character, particularly adapted for hot-weather administration. The value of 'hydro-carbons' in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognised, and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils, and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the best results. The Oil of DR. DE JONGH places in everyone's reach a reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognised."

DR. R. C. CRAFT, Surgeon of Her Majesty's Navy.

"DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL is almost a specific in many of the Diseases peculiar to Infancy and Childhood. I have seen the most marked benefit produced by its use. Patients prefer it to the Pale Oils, and are able to retain it more comfortably."

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL is Supplied ONLY in IMPERIAL HALF-Pints, Pints and Quarts, sealed with DE JONGH'S Patent Capsule impressed on the top with DR. DE JONGH'S Stamp, and on the side with his Signature and the Signature of ANSAR, HARFORD & Co.; and bears over the wrapper a Label with the same Stamp and Signatures.
